We Dedicate

We, the Yearbook Staff, would like to express our gratitude to Mr. Henry Curtis whose interests and efforts have made this book possible.

ADMINISTRATION

Yale High School Administration

Mr. Philip Hanson, Superintendent of Schools, received his A.B. and M.A. from the University of Michigan. He has also done graduate work at U. of M.

The successful publication of a school yearbook means a lot to the students who put in the time and do the work. The collection of memories is worth while, and they will become more valuable to the schoolmates in the future.

The school district administration approves wholeheartedly of projects of this type, because this is a fine application of skills learned in earlier grades. In addition, the combined efforts of collecting and editing the chapters, and soliciting and writing the advertising show the students involved how a commercial enterprise works.

Congratulations to the Bulldog Staff for completing their project, the 1964 Bulldog. Congratulations to the Class of 1964 for completing their project - finishing their education!

Working with the wonderful people of Yale - both parents and students - has made us happy we chose to come here.

Philip Hanson
Superintendent of Schools

Mr. Warren Dolsen, Principal of Yale High School, is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University where he obtained his Master's degree from University of Michigan. His graduate work was done at U. of M.

"Education is a co-operative venture between teacher and student. It is our hope that this year has been one in which you have learned to co-operate and thus to make this 'school community' a better one in which to live and learn. It is through this co-operation that this book was finally formulated.

"May you, the Class of '64, be remembered of this co-operation as you go on to 'tame the world'. You will find it a great help."

Chapter 3 THE BEGINNINGS OF GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

The roots of American government reach deep into the past. Our system of government did not suddenly spring into being as if the voice of some political sage had been heard. Nor was it pulled out of thin air by the

Our English Heritage. The French, Spanish, Dutch, Norwegian, and other Europeans settled in parts of what was to become the United States. But it was the English who came in the largest numbers. And it was the English who came to control the thirteen colonies that stretched for 2,500 miles along the Atlantic seaboard.

These early pioneers who crossed the wilderness and fought off the Indians had to look out for their own future in the New World. But they came here in search of greater Founding Fathers at Philadelphia in the summer of 1787. Earlier, it was development through long centuries of experience, tradition, thought, and action. We shall now review the high points of these traditions.

The Colonial Period Then and then brought with it many political ideas which were already in the minds of the English people. These brought with them the ideas of a government which should have been working and developing in England for centuries before the coming of the first Englishmen to America.

These ideas were the result of centuries of struggle for freedom and justice. They were the result of the struggle for the rights of the individual against the power of the king.

These ideas were the result of the struggle for the rights of the individual against the power of the king.

SETTLERS AT WORK

Early Americans had to live together in harmony, or they would not survive. This was called "government in order to live," the beginning of our government today.

of which can be found today. Liberty, however, they should secure, and justice of the peace, for example. And all of these were well-known in England long before the first Englishmen ever heard of America.

(1) The First Concepts of Limited Government and Civil Liberties. They brought with them, too, the twin ideas of limited government and civil liberties. That is, that government is not all-powerful; that government is limited in what it may do, and, conversely, that it is limited in the sense that each man has certain rights that government cannot injure or take away. These great principles of freedom were proclaimed in such historic English documents as the Magna Carta in 1215, the Petition of Right in 1628, and the Bill of Rights and the Act of Toleration of 1689.

(2) The Concept of Representative Government. A third vitally important concept brought to America in English ships was that of representative government. For centuries there had been, developing in England the

ATHLETICS

Ten seniors headed the list of Bulldogs this year. They were Dave Chandler, Dan Hillis, Pat Kleitch, Don McIvor, Allen Meharg, Doug Ostrander, Dennis Roy, Bob Sampson, and Don Yuhasz.

Coach Larry Goulding remarked of the 63-64, "We had a lack of lettermen that resulted in a lack of experience, however, the boys tried hard and improved greatly by the end of the season."

The spirit and morale of the team will be a fine example to future Bulldog teams.

The 1964 Bulldog's season record may not have been too impressive, but the team gave their all in each and every game. They showed steady improvement as the season progressed, and they always displayed good sportsmanship. The players were good representatives of their school and community and were a team that we all could be proud of.

The Bulldogs had three Seniors on the starting line-up: Dan Hillis, Leo Carson, and Lee Davis. Other Seniors on the team were: Dave Seaton and Pat Kleitch. These boys will be missed by their teammates next year.

Returning Lettermen for next season will include Jerry Winkler, Bob Johnson, Bob Miller, Tom Bennett, and Bill Maplethorpe.
